

Baby-sellers investigated by Senate subcommittee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of newsmen have outlined to a Senate subcommittee the operations of baby sellers that include lawyers offering up to $10,000 for infants to unwed mothers receiving pregnancy counseling.

The testimony came in the first of two days of hearings by the Senate children and youth subcommittee which is probing independent placement of infants by doctors and lawyers.

Maury Z. Levy, editorial director of "Philadelphia Magazine" said one of his staff members who did volunteer work at a local pregnancy testing and counseling clinic told him that some lawyers were often seen outside the clinic's offices and that they "had approached a number of young women who'd gone in for pregnancy counseling, trying to per-suaude them to keep their babies until term, then to give them up for adoption.

"Their means of persuasion were very blunt and very green," Levy said. "They were offering money, as much as $10,000 for a baby. They, in turn, would sell the baby to someone else, usually turning a profit of between $5,000 and $10,000."

Levy said his publication's investigation led to people in Miami who were shipping babies out of state if the price was right.

He said certain lawyers in Florida were operating "what amounted to stud farms, places where young girls would be given money to carry unwanted babies, places where young girls were paid to be inseminated."

"We learned of a network, a baby-buying connection that ran through Texas and Mexico and sometimes as far away as South America," Levy said.

Robert McAuley of the Cleveland Plain Dealer said an investigation by his newspaper found a loose-knit national referral service designed to put pregnant women in touch with lawyers seeking to arrange adoptions for clients who were willing to pay the price.

McAuley quoted a New York lawyer, Joseph Spencer, whom McAuley said related the following:

"It (an infant) can be as little as $2,500, if you want a Korean child, to a lot more. Now, for instance, for a White Caucasian child at birth, most of the lawyers quote substantial amounts, but even there it doesn't run much beyond $13,000."

The reporters followed testimony by Joseph H. Reid, executive director of the Child Welfare League of America, who said it is estimated that as many as 5,000 babies go through the black market.

He said widespread use of contraceptives and abortions has caused a decrease in infants who are more desirable than others for adoption.

Vietnamese forced from embassy wall

30-year Vietnam involvement ends in tragic scenes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopters swooped down on Saigon rooftops and the Tan Son Nhut airport today and began evacuating most of the remaining 800 to 900 Americans. Some of the Americans fought off South Vietnamese desperately trying to flee before Communist-led forces take over.

America's 30-year involvement in the Indochina war was ending in wild and tragic scenes, with U.S. Marines and civilians using pistol and rifle bullets to smash the fingers of Vietnamese trying to claw their way over the 10-foot wall of the U.S. Embassy.

Some tried to jump the wall and landed on the barbed wire. A man and a woman lay on the wire, bleeding as helicopters lifted off the embassy roof. People held up their children, asking Americans to take them over the fence.

At the airport, angry Vietnamese guards fired at busloads of evacuees and shouted, "We want to go, too." U.S. fighter-bombers flew air cover high over the city for the evacuation.

The Pentagon said 81 helicopters and more than 800 Marines were used to ferry evacuees to aircraft carriers in the South China Sea. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said more than 4,500 Americans and Vietnamese had been evacuated six hours after the operation began.

Vice President Nguyen Van Huynh renewed calls for a cease-fire but denied Tuesday night that the government had reached any agreement with the Viet Cong. He said a government delegation met twice during the day with a Viet Cong delegation at Tan Son Nhut but the Viet Cong group said it was not qualified to make political decisions.

Huynh said one of the demands of the Viet Cong — the removal of all Americans — was already being met and that the demands for abolishment of the Saigon government and the army were being considered.

President Ford ordered the airlift after President Duong Van Minh made a radio speech ordering all Americans assigned to the U.S. defense attaché's office out of the country within 24 hours.

At the same time, South Vietnamese air force men began a mass flight from their homeland. The Thai Foreign Ministry said 74 planes carried about 2,000 Vietnamese to Utapao Air Base in southern Thailand.

Civilian officials of the South Vietnamese government were also reported fleeing as rumors spread that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese would soon march into the city.

In Washington, some congressional Democrats criticized the U.S. evacuation coming too late and unnecessarily risking American lives.

"If there is a number of Americans at the very end that get trapped or killed, I think there will be an investigation," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

"I think it's been too slow," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and vice president during the big Vietnam buildup of the Johnson administration.

"We lost two Marines last night. I really think it's inexcusable, this delay."

The two Marines were killed in shelling at Tan Son Nhut that preceded the evacuation.

As the Americans pulled out, South Vietnamese police and soldiers looted buildings they had occupied. They carried out refrigerators, furniture, air-conditioners and other household goods.

Besides the South Vietnamese planes which flew to Thailand, a DC6B that had been used by high-ranking South Vietnamese officials landed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines with 130 persons aboard, including air force men and a handful of women and children.

While most Americans were pulling out, a few remained behind. Among them were some newsmen and missionaries. Three Associated Press correspondents remained — George Esper, Peter Arnett and Matt Franjola.

"We have talked about this for years," said Max Ediser, 28, of Turpin, Okla., who works with the Mennonite Central Committee. "We could never come up with a definite answer. Now we realize that having talked of love to our Vietnamese people, and told them not to yield to fear or ignorance, we cannot leave them in this hour of need. So we are staying."

The Thai government said it had advised the U.S. Embassy that "all planes belonging to the Cambodian and South Vietnamese governments flown to Thailand must be turned over to the Thai authorities, and we expect to return them to the next Cambodian and South Vietnamese governments."

Pros and cons of beer garden weighed during open meeting

If the open meeting held by the Petunia Festival Corporation Board of Directors Monday night at Loveland Community House did little else, it brought the festival's money pinch into the spotlight and some promises to help.

The meeting was called to try to explain the proposal for a beer garden as part of the festival this summer. The opposition was there and seemed little swayed by the meeting, but some of the beer garden opponents promised to try to help win more community support for the festival.

John Kuster, president of the festival board, traced a little of the history of the event.

"Although the event lasts four or five days, months of planning go into it," he explained. "It takes about $20,000 to run the event each year. There are many free things, but we try to bring in family shows and other things at cost or a loss to provide good entertainment."

Kuster said the festival lost $1,330 on the drum and bugle corps competition last year. Another $2,200 was lost on the water show. He said the fireworks display cost $1,400. Hidden costs for other things such as trophies, signs, custodial help and office expense pushed up the deficit.

"The beer garden proposal has been studied for several years," he continued. "We would like to have a gigantic tent, probably in the location of the ice rink, brightly lit, attractively decorated and as nice as possible for entire families. We plan to have soft drinks, sandwiches, snacks, bands and entertainment. It would be a nice touch if it were handled right. People have shown us they are not pleased with the shows we bring in. They won't attend. We've turned to the beer garden not only as a possible source of added funds but as a new attraction which would add to the general climate of the festival."

found lots of things wrong with the beer garden idea when we first raised it.

"They wanted to know what's going to happen," he explained. "What happened is, it brought people together and kept them together. We hired a consulting firm to help us with our first celebration, the centennial, and I think they have written beer gardens into their books. We ran a clean place and will continue to do so. We've had no problems. It's added to the color and enjoyment of the Walnut Days and has become a place for friends to gather."

The Rev. Gary Cleveland, pastor of the Church of Christ spoke in opposition, saying he "failed to see any good that could be done" by a beer garden. He said the "risks were too great."

Bob Hale asked Kuster if the festival board had tried other kinds of shows to try to take up the financial slack.

Kuster explained almost all kinds of shows had been tried and none prove successful. He said limited seating prevented the engaging of any really big attractions where a wider area of interest might be served.

"We lose money on the drum and bugle corps event, for example, but it's worth it," Kuster asserted, "because those six musical units give us the nucleus for our parade."

Hale countered with an idea to get more community participation. "If we need a door-to-door canvasser to sell it, let's sell it that way."

The Rev. Robert Zetterberg

Bob Linley, Walnut, had nothing but praise for beer gardens.

Mrs. Brickley's remarks drew applause from almost all of those in attendance.

of Bethel Evangelical Church said he learned from Police Chief Earl Kelchner that alcohol was the biggest problem in the community. The Rev. Mr. Zetterberg asked Linley what law enforcement problems the beer garden had caused in Walnut.

Linley said there had been no problems. "It's not really a place that troublemakers want to be," he explained.

Carroll Schumacher said he felt the beer garden might harm the festival more than it helped. He cited the participation of churches in the parade with floats and the danger of losing support because of the beer garden.

"Some of the church people here might possibly issue a challenge to meet the loss in revenue just to make sure there is no more harm done to the family unit."

Priscilla Brickley, a member of the festival board, rose to say, "There are people on the board who work hundreds of hours each year just to make the festival a success. Any of you who belong to organizations which work within the festival know that even there, it's the same group of people who do the work. They are the ones who feel they have time to give to the community. We need your help. We're tired of being told no. We need support, not just standing up and telling us what you don't like."

Three dead in Johannesburg

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A South African security guard took 21 persons hostage in the Israeli consulate, killed three persons and wounded 37, then surrendered early today after a 21-hour siege, authorities said.

David Protter, a 26-year-old Jew who fought for Israel in the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, said he had a grievance against the Israeli government. He said he wanted to be flown to Israel to talk to Premier Yitzhak Rabin.

First police reports said six terrorists had taken over the fifth-floor consulate Monday. Officials said they did not contact the airport until after Protter surrendered because he threatened to kill all the hostages if it became known he was acting alone.

Armed with three revolvers, two submachine guns and some hand grenades, Protter hid inside the consulate before dawn Monday. He launched his takeover by telling each staff member arriving for work that he was conducting a security exercise and locking him up.

When his Israeli superior, security officer Giora Raviv, objected, Protter shot and killed him, authorities said.

One of the other men killed was a South African employee, Edwin Malpo. The third victim, whose body was found in the consulate, was not identified.

Consul-General Arie Bustan said that when he arrived at 9:50 a.m., Protter asked him to accompany him to the vault for the security exercise. There he saw a guard lying on the floor, and Protter trained a revolver and light machine gun on the consul.

Commercial Attache Michael Ram said Protter wired the building with 165 pounds of explosives tied to an electronic detonator. He added to his hostages by capturing children of consulate staff who arrived after attending morning movie shows.

Who started Viet war?

Who started the war in Vietnam? Harry Truman sent Gen. George Marshall to Vietnam to clean up the trouble. Marshall picked out the hereditary ruler of Vietnam. Ho moved in creating a communist government.

Presidents John Kennedy, L. B. Johnson and Richard Nixon kept sending in U.S. soldiers, but would not allow them to defeat the communists.

The free people of south Asia's fate was sealed when in August 1973 the United States Congress ordered President Nixon to stop the armed services from bombing the communist supply lines and communists in Cambodia.

Those congressmen who voted for this surely cannot rejoice in the slaughtering of men, women and children trying to escape from the communist army that is blasting its way to complete subjugation of these freedom loving people.

Many nations need more food and this is one way to get it. Kill the owners of land so it will be easier to acquire.

The Chinese are sending large groups of engineers into Africa to help the natives. Eventually they will take over control in their customary way.

If the people of America are saddened by what is happening in Asia, they will want a change in the type of people they elect to office, providing it is not too late for the few freedom loving people.

Space -- the best yet to come

By DON OAKLEY

Now that the glamor period of space exploration is over, we don't hear so much about its "spinoff" benefits. Yet the contributions of space research to a better life on earth continue to accumulate, and its promises far transcend such things as improved ceramics for cookingware or micro-electronic hearing aids.

Within the next generation, we may see huge space stations orbiting our planet, inhabited by meteorologists, physicians, engineers and technologists from countries around the globe. From their lofty laboratories in the sky, they will direct efforts to relieve world food shortages, clean up global pollution, combat and treat diseases and help secure international peace.

The potential for utilizing outer space in these ways is no longer science fiction. It is already within our reach, says Dr. Edward B. Lindaman, president of Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash., and former director of program planning for the Apollo spacecraft.

"Space technology is one of mankind's most powerful tools for achieving prosperity for our planet," he writes in VFW magazine.

Consider the energy crisis. We've suddenly discovered that the earth's bounty of rich mineral deposits, once thought of as endless, has been devoured rapaciously by our rapidly developing world. The United States alone has used more minerals and fuels in the past 30 years than the whole world did in all previous history.

Even with the most refined instruments, earthbound geologists and engineers still rely to a degree on hit-and-miss methods of locating new natural deposits at an expense of millions of dollars and wasted manhours.

In contrast, space satellites can provide an accurate reading of exactly where mineral and water resources are buried in the earth's upper strata. Unmanned satellites equipped with remote sensors have already revealed more about the physical properties of our planet than science was ever aware of.

Satellite surveys can also add billions of dollars worth of food to the world's economy by eliminating guesswork in crop planning, harvest scheduling and water supply management.

Sensors that can "see" crop disease and spot insects before either is visible to the human eye allow governments to scrutinize their cultivated lands more accurately from space than the farmer on the ground. These same "eyes" in the sky have increased the efficiency of fishing fleets and measured the thickness of ice on the Great Lakes.

Global pollution is another problem that can be tackled more effectively from beyond the earth's boundaries. The first job in combating air and water pollution is knowing where it exists and how it spreads and diminishes. With information recorded by satellites, scientists can now obtain accurate readings of the flow and drift of polluted water and air.

What else can we expect? Among Lindaman's predictions:

—Orbiting space factories in which metallurgists will be able to concoct wonder materials like superstrong, superlight foam steel that cannot be made on earth.

—Orbiting hospitals where burn victims and those suffering from heart diseases can be treated in a weightless environment.

In sum space exploration offers the potential to carry mankind into a dynamic future, says Lindaman. We know only one-millionth of reality. By extending our senses through space technology, we are opening up new frontiers of knowledge that will enable us to better manage our world and our future.

Argentine state of seige

BUENOS AIRES (LENS)—Violence in Argentina is on the wane and the guerrillas are at their last gasp—or so the Argentine government would have the world believe.

An intimidated press has helped to maintain the illusion: guerrilla raids have been reported as isolated incidents and political assassinations have gone uncounted, mixed in with crime news on an inside page. But any confidence this may have induced has been swept away in recent weeks by an explosion of violence too horrific to conceal.

In one recent weekend, political warfare claimed 27 victims. It began with a wave of vendetta killings on both the left and right in Mar del Plata. Seven young men and a young girl, all associated with the peronist left, were slaughtered by a 15-man murder squad which kidnapped them from their homes and then executed them on wasteland in the once-pleasant Anglo-Argentine suburb of Temperley. As on so many occasions, the killers first pretended to be police and acted with such confidence that neighbors at the murder site obeyed their orders, even to the point of refusing to speak to journalists afterwards.

At least 57 other people have died at the hands of terrorists this year. When last year's campaign by the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) began to falter against the onslaught mounted by the local variation of Brazil's notorious death squads, the Argentine Anti-Communist Alliance, the Montoneros stepped into the breach. The Montoneros had won their spurs as the chief resistance group to the military regime that preceded General Peron's return to power last year, and they are much more professional than the ERP.

Their most dramatic recent exploit was the kidnapping and murder of the United States consular agent in Cordoba, John Egan, after the government had refused their demand for the release of a number of missing urban guerrillas. Their objective, now that control of the peronist movement has been lost to the right, is to provoke another army coup which they hope will rally public opinion to their banner again.

Argentina's president, Isabelita Peron, is determined to avoid this. She has powerful support among the more cautious generals, such as ex-President Lanusse, who burned his fingers trying to run the country. Her right-hand man, Lopez Rega, is widely regarded as a mediator between her and the army. The key to staying off the more restless generals probably lies in peronist control of the major trade unions; labor discontent is one problem that even the army diehards would prefer not to face.

So jumpy is the government about the unions that last weekend it revealed a "plot" to paralyze heavy industry that turned out to be nothing more than a pay strike at Argentina's three largest steel plants, whose left-wing activists have often clashed with the labor federation controlled by the right-wing peronists.

The terrorists have also grasped the importance of the unions. On the same day that the American consul was killed—and the president of Argentina's supreme court kidnapped—Adolfo Cavalli, the former leader of the oil workers' union, was found shot dead in Buenos Aires, and since then Eustaquio Tolosa, the former head of the dockers' union, has been critically wounded.

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS—In other columns on this page a reader takes us to task about how we reported an accident in which our correspondent was involved.

We are caustically criticized for using various words for the piece of paper a policeman gives an offending motorist.

Our letter writer notes on the same day we reported her accident which noted she was arrested, there were three other traffic accidents in which motorists were given pieces of papers by policemen and we described them as ticketed, cited and charged.

Our critic contends describing the piece of paper she received from the police as being an arrest was an inappropriate definition of what occurred.

We consider our detractor's charge to be in the area of semantics and that our word usage is backed up by Webster's dictionary.

After investigation, we discover arrest means, "to take in custody by authority of law;" that charge means, "accuse," that cited means, "having received a summons to appear in court," and that ticket, in colloquial use means "summoned to court."

We submit these words all apply to the consequences which follow the issuance of a piece of paper by a policeman notifying that a person transgressed the law.

In each case the issuance of the paper by an officer to an offender of a law encumbers that individual to appear for a court hearing.

This act places the individual under the custody of the criminal justice system by whatever name it is called: arrested, charged, ticketed or cited.

The reason for using various words to describe the meaning of a policeman giving a piece of paper to a person who has infringed some law is to provide variety in reading.

If all similar news stories were written alike those who view them would not enjoy the reading as when there are a variety of words used to describe particular actions which convey the same meaning.

It is part of what we consider putting out a better product because it reflects the work of a careful writer. So much for our defense of proper usage of words.

Our critic further scolded us for not reporting the name of the person whose vehicle her auto collided with. Here, journalistically, we stand guilty of an infraction of principles.

In the process of fitting on a page the stories, pictures and advertisements which are scheduled for it, often something must give because they do not all fit.

Various measures are taken to correct such a situation when it arises and as a last resort stories are cut by what is called "shirt-tail editing." This practice starts with the end of a story and begins to delete some of its lines.

An effort is made not to "cut" the story so that it is not a complete report and the rules say no essential information should be deleted.

Cutting off of the second driver's name who was involved in the accident which the writer drew our attention to, was a bending of rules and was done from sheer practical necessity.

We do not believe it did injustice to the story because the omitted name was a person who was an innocent victim, but we agree the story would be better had the name been included in the account.

We are glad the reader wrote to us to express displeasure about our reporting.

We are not certain our explanation will be accepted by her.

It does, however, give us an opportunity to converse with readers about questions which confront us and why we handle them in the manner which appear in the newspaper.

What we do should be no great secret. We have a job to do, much like most readers, and like them, try to do it the best we can.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

Saturday, April 20, 1975 I was involved in an accident at the corner of Galena Avenue and Bradshaw Street. I immediately had the police called from the Dixon Pharmacy on the same corner at 12:30 p.m.

The accident was investigated by Policeman Patrick Kavanaugh, which I received a ticket for improper backing. You printed in your paper "Traffic Incident Brings Ticket." You whoever played a song with the word arrested, which sound like hell, and to me, gave the wrong impression—To me, it implied I was placed in jail — "fingerprinted" — "rights read" — "drilled" — and "booked," that is the way it sound.

If you will notice on the same page—there were four incidents that was nicely worded — "ticketed" — "cited" — and "Charged." Three were involved with another car or truck. The other, a one-car accident and all were were explained in detail with 12 to 19 lines except the Shaw accident.

You stated I was arrested for improper backing, no mention of another car being involved—which involved a person driving a car. The person had a name and lived in the city of Rock Falls.

When the whole truth isn't told—it's a lie and being silent is a sophisticated way to lie.

I do not care what your few lines did and didn't say about me. All other four incidents involving car or car matters were in detail but for Shaw, you just slammed something together and printed it also gave the opportunity to your readers to "guess the rest." The truth of detail was omitted.

The other four incidents I mentioned were written with cute words and in detail.

You, being prejudiced is your business but it is my business when you let it cover your sight and cause you to become unfair . . .

Many people criticize Nixon and Watergate . . . this is another gate—Telegraph gate . . . now I must seek further to deal with this . . . and the Dixon Police must let me know I was arrested so my rights may be read — fingerprint me — book me — and make that one phone call, of course I will need a lawyer . . .

Sincerely,
Alpha O. Shaw

The wedding was performed at 2 p.m. by the Rev. William Kirk, pastor of St. Benedict's Church, Ladd, and the nuptial organist, Mrs. Betty McCabe, accompanied the vocalist, Ronald Pierce, Moline. Participating as lecturer was Robert Walker, Bettendorf, Iowa, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Altar Bouquets

Yellow, blue, pink and green floral arrangements decorated the church altar, and white satin bows were attached to the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor-length gown of white Quiana and nylon, which she designed and made. The gown's princess skirt was topped by a fitted bodice featuring a scooped neckline and tapered sleeves, and her contoured headpiece was formed of fresh flowers in pastel colors and baby's breath. Identical flowers were combined in the nosegay she carried.

A similar gown of yellow Quiana and nylon was worn by the maid of honor, Miss Cathy Gugerty, and gowns of blue, pink and green Quiana and nylon were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Laurie Zyburt, Miss Mary Williamson and Miss Laura Willcutt, all of Normal. Fresh flowers formed their headdresses, and matching flowers were used in the nosegays they carried.

David Mattison, Moline, was his brother's best man; Charles Engstrom, Moline; James Huston, Champaign, and Mr. Walker served as groomsmen, and ushers for the service were the bride's brothers, Thomas and Keith Yucus.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for 300 guests in the St. Louis Catholic Church Hall, Princeton, when hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rupp, Quincy, Iowa, godparents of the bride.

Assistants

A decorated wedding cake was served by Miss Charlotte Rupp and Miss Carmel Cooney, and coffee and punch were poured by Miss Karen Esterday and Miss Laurel Marine. Guests were registered by Miss Shelly Rupp, and assisting at the refreshment table were Mrs. Joseph Legner, Mrs. Richard Yucus and Mrs. Paul Yucus. Randy Rupp and Daniel Legner assisted at the gift table, and the reception was catered by Beabers of Princeton.

The bride attended Illinois State University, Normal following her graduation from Ohio High School, and her husband graduated from Moline High School and ISU.

Following their return from a wedding trip to New Orleans, the newlyweds will reside in Moline.

When cooking for only yourself — and perhaps one other person — don't slip into the habit of eating skimpy, monotonous meals. With planning and careful shopping, you can prepare a variety of appealing meals containing the foods your body needs every day.

Here are some tips for small-scale shopping that adds variety to the diet.

Buy only the amount of food you can use easily. The large package, even though you may get more for your money, is no bargain if the food becomes stale or spoiled before you can eat all of it. Likewise, pick the small-size cans of fruit, vegetables, and seafood. Single-serving cans of fruit and vegetable juice let you choose from a variety of juices on your pantry shelf.

However, the larger packages of loose, frozen vegetables may be the best choice because you can use just what you'll eat for one meal, keeping the rest frozen.

Dry milk is inexpensive, requires little storage, and can be used in cooking and for drinking. If carrying groceries home is a problem, a package of dry milk is much easier to carry than cartons of fresh milk. Nonfat dry milk contains the same protein, calcium, and riboflavin as fresh milk, but not as many calories and no vitamin A, unless fortified. When using dry milk for drinking, be sure to prepare the milk beforehand and place it in the refrigerator.

Dried vegetables, fruits, soups and mixes, such as dehydrated onions and potatoes, may be better choices for you than fresh ones. They are easy to use, you can prepare only the amount you want, and the remainder will keep until you need it.

TV dinners, individual poultry pies, frozen entrees, etc., have improved in quality the past few years. When you are not feeling well, a meal that requires only heating may mean the difference between eating and not eating. Convenience purchased at the grocery store is less costly than hiring someone to prepare food in the home. Thus, you might like to keep a couple of meals in the freezer.

Use this quick guide for meat: One pound of poultry or meat with a lot of gristle or bone equals one to two servings; one pound of fish fillets or meat with some bone equals three servings, and one pound of boneless meat equals four to five servings.

Don't hesitate to buy the larger roast or a whole chicken. Simply cut it into smaller pieces. Use part, then freeze the rest in meal-size packages.

Remember that breads, crackers, and cookies become stale easily. Buy small amounts if possible, especially when the humidity is high. Wrap and freeze part of a loaf of bread to keep it fresh until needed.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — My bookcase was in a flood and the wood is alright but the glass in the doors looks dull and cloudy. I have used several things on it but the cloudiness remains. I would appreciate some suggestions. — VIOLA.

DEAR VIOLA — One recommended remedy for glass with a cloudy look and mineral deposits on it is to use a detergent in hot water with three tablespoons of water conditioner added. Let this stay on (if doors can be removed and laid flat) for several hours and then rinse off using a stiff brush, if necessary, to remove the sediment. An old-fashioned remedy is to soak tea leaves in vinegar and wash with that liquid. Doubtless you already have tried kerosene, one tablespoon in two quarts of warm water or how about a dilute of household ammonia? — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY and SHIRLEY — We, too, save our garbage to use for mulch in the garden. My husband dug a hole about 1 1/2 feet around and two or three feet deep to put it in. We keep a lid from an old oil drum over it and this lid sets a little below the ground line so animals cannot open it. There is no odor from this hole in the ground. This garbage is left all winter and starts to compost right in the hole. Come spring this half rotted material is spread on our garden or mixed in our compost heap.

We think bones are good for the garden, too. The bones our dogs do not eat, such as chicken bones, etc., are boiled to make a broth that is poured over dry dog food and then the bones are buried in the hole, too. This addition to the dry food saves so much money spent on canned dog food. — JOAN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet eevee is with all those catalogues that come in the mail telling of sweepstakes. I feel they use these as bait to get people to make out big orders thinking they will win. — MARY EDNA.

There was never a greater rivalry than that between Ely Culbertson and Hal Sims in the early days of contract. It was a friendly rivalry. Sims called Ely the "Professor," Ely called Hal the "Maestro."

The Professor, sitting South, won today's battle of wits. The play started normally enough. The queen of hearts was led, covered by king and ace. Heart returned and third heart was led to force dummy to ruff.

The king of spades was led from dummy and the Maestro, sitting West, let it hold. Had the Professor tamely led his last trump from dummy the Maestro would win, throw the Professor in dummy and score the setting trick with his last trump. But the Professor was not going to fall into that trap.

He cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds and ace of clubs. His plan was to continue with the club king and then play the second trump. If that club went through he could go back to trumps and there would be no way for West to throw him in dummy.

Sims tried his last play. He dropped the jack of clubs under the ace. This caused Ely to think for some time. Finally Ely decided if Sims really held a singleton club, he would have opened it. So Ely continued with his original plan and led the king of clubs and made his contract.

MAX GUINNUP

The Home Economics Council of the Lee County Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor a community program on music appreciation to be presented by Max Guinnup, director of music at Sauk Valley College, at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the special dining room at the college.

There will be no admission charge, and selections included should appeal to both young people and adults.

In 1966, he was presented an award for his outstanding contributions to the city of Monroe, and in 1974 he was listed in Who's Who of Outstanding Educators in America. He has been director of the Sauk Valley Community Choral since it was organized in 1971, and he is active in community programs promoting music appreciation.

Dixon Woman's Club program is presented by Mrs. Barton

Members of the Dixon Woman's Club met Saturday afternoon in Loveland Community House when Mrs. C. S. Tovar, a member of the club, introduced her daughter, Mrs. Maria Montalvo Barton, who presented a program on "Cuba: My Native Country."

Mrs. Barton reviewed the history of Cuba from the time it was discovered by Columbus in 1492 to the present. She stated that Columbus described Cuba "as the most beautiful land I have ever seen" and "the key to the Antillas."

Slides

Slides shown by the speaker included the capitol building in Havana. A great diamond set in black marble was placed under the dome of the structure. It was referred to as the "National treasure of Cuba" until it was removed and sent to Russia.

Sugar, tobacco and coffee are the principal products, and Mrs. Barton, a refugee as a child, closed her program by expressing appreciation to the American government for assisting the Cuban refugees.

Preceding the program, Mrs. Tovar played recordings of various types of Cuban music, and Mrs. Verne Johnson, music chairman, introduced Nathan Shepherd, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Tom Shepherd and a seventh-grade student, who played Forrest L. Buchtel's composition, "Bolero" on a baritone horn.

Members and guests were greeted by Mrs. Murray Wentling and Mrs. Lester Spencer, and attending as guests were Mrs. Henry Reynolds, Mrs. Helen DeGeorge, Mrs. Daniel Tovar, Mrs. Edward Mack and Mrs. Robert Vancil.

Miss Lorraine Missman gave the "inspirational message" entitled "Friendship Recipe," and the pledge of allegiance to the American flag was led by Miss Esther Barton.

Mrs. Chester Moats announced the club's annual May Luncheon for 12:30 p.m. May 10 at Emerald Hill Country Club when a program will be presented by the "Music Belles," a vocal sextet from Compton. Tickets for the luncheon must be obtained in advance.

Monday's meeting for the club garden division was announced, and a May 13 meeting for the crafts division with Mrs. Cecil Laughlin will include a scramble dinner. The Dixon High School Honors banquet, sponsored annually by the Dixon Woman's Club and the American Association of University Women, was announced for May 6 in high school cafeteria.

District Awards

Club members made contributions to CARE, and Mrs. Clarence Bothe announced the following literature awards presented to members of the club at a recent 13th District meeting: Mrs. Roland Metzger, Miss Goldie Gigous, Mrs. Francis Jennings, Mrs. James Marshall, Mrs. H. A. Lazier, Mrs. Wilson Walker, Mrs. Charles F. Johnston and two awards to Miss Leva Missman.

The Dixon Woman's Club won two awards, one for communications and one for conservation.

Mrs. Howard Byers and Mrs. Anthony Durso presided at the tea table arranged for a social hour by Mrs. David Moore and Mrs. Walter Smith, and their committee members, Mrs. Fred Lawton, Mrs. Frank McIntyre, Mrs. Hilda Bridgeman, Mrs. Robert Deets, Mrs. Marvin Rebeck, Mrs. Vernon Cleary, Mrs. Selma Levy, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Harry Lephien, Mrs. Metzger, Mrs. Clarence Bohlman, Mrs. Byers, Mrs. Tadeusz Wiclawek, Mrs. John Wadsworth, Miss Ruth Bollman, Mrs. Earl Bothe, Mrs. Charles Mensch and Mrs. Forrest Trautwein.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I work as a nurse's aide in a hospital. Today it happened for the umpteenth time so I'm writing to you in the hope you will give my complaint the visibility it deserves.

Where are these people's heads at—the ones who park in spaces reserved for the handicapped? On my way to work this morning I saw this badly crippled woman being pushed in a wheelchair a whole block in a terrible rainstorm. The poor thing was soaking wet and the man who was pushing her chair had an awful time trying to hold an umbrella and manage the chair at the same time.

People who are lucky enough to be able to walk on two legs should be willing to park a block or two away and stay out of spaces reserved for the handicapped.

Tell 'em, off, Annie. Thanks in advance.—Mad In Michigan

Dear Mad In Mich.: I'm addressing myself to every person who reads this column: Please try to imagine what life would be like if YOU didn't have the use of your legs. How would you feel if you had to be pushed in a chair in a rainstorm because some able-bodied hog took the parking space reserved for you? I hope you'll remember this letter the next time you see a sign that says "Reserved For The Handicapped."

Dear Ann Landers: I've been taught to respect my elders but recently you made a mistake. I apologize for correcting you, but you told a lady that nobody should have to work seven days a week because "Lincoln freed the slaves."

You are only partly right. Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation of 1863 stated, "All persons held as slaves within any State, or designated part of a State" rebelling against the Union, "shall be then, thenceforward, and forever free."

This did NOT free the slaves in the states of Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware, nor did it free the slaves in the slave territories. It was the 13th Amendment to the Constitution passed in 1865 that freed ALL the slaves.

I'm not blaming you for the mistake. Most people are under the same false impression. I just happen to have a very smart history teacher. I'll sign myself—B-10, L.H.S. ('76)

Dear L.H.S.: Cheers to you and your very smart history teacher. I think he (or she) has a very smart student. Thanks for my lesson. I'll sign myself A.L., C.H.S. ('36)

Dear Ann Landers: I have an answer to "Better Fed And Not So Lonely." She forgot to mention the 20 years during which she was "too tired, too busy or not in the mood." Some women kill a man's love and desire and they don't want any part of him until they discover that another woman does. Suddenly there's a great revival of interest.

As a man who has walked in those moccasins, I can tell her The Other Woman didn't steal my affections. My wife lost them and The Other Woman found them. Just sign me—Happy At Last

Dear Happy: Your story is one I've heard hundreds of times. But the one I've heard THOUSANDS of times is from the wife whose husband is too tired, too busy or not in the mood. Too bad there's no way to reshuffle the deck so everybody could be happy.

Seating Arrangements

(Part Four of a Series On Furniture Arrangements.)

Providing more than one seating group in a spacious room is not too hard but if you are working with a small room you will have to use some ingenuity, both in furniture placement and furniture selection. Smaller pieces will help. Perhaps a loveseat can be used instead of a sofa. A pair of matching, small-scale occasional chairs, with a table between, can be placed at right angles to each other to provide this second area.

Armless or open-armed chairs that can be brought easily into the main grouping are good to have when there is a crowd and conversation is lively.

If the above are your needs to help furnish your room arrangements, come in and see Dunbar's wide selection of the various fine chairs mentioned.

Our showrooms offer the quality and the styles you will like. Plus our experienced professional design counselors can suggest custom room arrangement plans designed with your life style in mind. Visit Dunbar's — Always first in fine interiors.

Tax relief planned for elderly

SPRINGFIELD—There will be more property tax relief early next year for senior and disabled citizens who rent their Illinois residences, state Revenue Director Robert H. Allphin said today.

Allphin, discussing an amendment to the state's Circuit Breaker Law that provides for increases in grants to senior and disabled persons who rent their homes, said the change in the law was effective Jan. 1, 1976, but retroactive to the 1974 property tax year.

The change for renters, who can count a percentage of their annual rent as a property tax, increases the rent percentage level from 25 to 30 per cent, retroactive to the 1974 tax year.

Allphin said the Jan. 1, 1976, effective date for the change would mean renters' property tax relief would continue to be figured at the 25 per cent level through the remainder of this year. But he said renters who qualified for relief on 1974 property taxes would get the additional sum soon after Jan. 1.

"At that time," he said,

He became Scoutmaster of Troop 84 of Rochelle and served until 1968 when he became institutional representative for Pack 319 sponsored by the First United Presbyterian Church and has continued in this position to the present time.

Akey has also been active in Rochelle's Little League program for several years and is a Sunday School teacher at the First United Presbyterian Church and has also served as usher, trustee and deacon.

Offered will be consigned paintings, pottery, ceramics, jewelry, photography, foral arrangements, shadow boxes, centerpieces and miscellaneous items.

Thirty per cent of the rent is $360, and that would represent the property tax bill.

"The next step is to take five per cent of the person's income, in this case $300, and subtract that from $500, the maximum grant allowed by law. That leaves $200, which is the maximum grant a person which an income of $6,000 would get."

"You figure how much money up to $200 the person is entitled to by subtracting four per cent of the income, or $240, from the amount of the property tax, $360. The grant in this case, then, would be $120."

The figure equivalent to four per cent of the person's income is important, the director said, because the law recognizes that the average property tax bill for senior and disabled persons amounts to four per cent of their income.

Grants are awarded to qualified persons for tax amounts over four per cent. But if the taxes amount to less than four per cent of the income, the person would not be eligible for a grant.

Amboy accepts grant

SPRINGFIELD—The city of Amboy, today accepted a $10,500 Illinois Environmental Protection Agency grant offer, which is part of Gov. Dan Walker's Accelerated Building Program. The grant will enable the city to do basic planning work for upgrading the community's existing sewage treatment plant.

A case of being right and wrong

A case of mistaken identity led to the towing of a car from the teacher's parking lot at Dixon High School Monday.

Authorities at DHS reported an abandoned vehicle in the parking lot to Dixon Police. Police checked the registration and found the car belonged to Ralph Hansen, Stockton, before having the 1965 Chevy towed from the lot. Later, after contacting the Hansens, it was learned the car was being used by their son, David Berglund, a teacher at the high school.

Probe damage

Randy Holmes, 1307 Douglas Ave., reported damage to his car while it was parked at 910 W. Third St. Sunday.

Holmes told police Monday two boys, approximately 16 or 17 years old, broke the back window in his 1971 Saab. When he came out to the car after he heard the noise, the youths ran off. Holmes believes the youths were after two speakers in his car. Dixon Police were investigating the incident.

Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery.

Visitation will be held Wednesday from 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9 p.m. with a wake service at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Senior Party Line

I am currently receiving a widow's pension from the Veteran's Administration, based on my late husband's service record. Can I remarry without affecting my eligibility for these benefits?—G. Q.
Dear Mrs. Q:

If you remarry, your widow's benefits will be discontinued. However, if you should be widowed a second time, your original widow's pension can be restored. This is an important new change in the law. Until recently, widow's pensions were permanently discontinued upon remarriage, with no chance whatsoever for future recovery. Many veterans' widows who have had their benefits cut off in the past may now qualify for restored benefits, if they have been widowed a second time. Those who think they may be eligible should contact the regional VA office, the local Veterans Commission office, or area veterans service organizations.

I recently received in the mail a computerized message regarding my recent application for circuit breaker tax relief. I didn't follow the mathematics involved in the computation of my grant, including the term "maximum grant," and I am not at all sure of the amount to which I am entitled. Can you explain this to me?—L.K.
Dear Mr. K:

The circuit breaker program is designed to provide cash grants to seniors and disabled persons whose property taxes (or an equivalent in rent) exceed 4 per cent of their annual household income. Within certain limits, the grant will equal the amount by which property taxes exceed 4 per cent of income. For example, with your income of $7,000, 4 per cent would be $280. Your tax bill of $480 would entitle you to a grant of $200—if that were the only computation involved. The circuit breaker law limits the grants on a sliding scale according to income, so that a household with $1,000 could receive up to $450, a household with $5,000 income could receive up to $250, and a household with $9,000 income could receive no more than $50. With your income of $7,000, you qualify for a maximum grant of $150. That's how much you will receive. On the new circuit breaker forms, a table is provided, enabling applicants to figure out how large a grant they can expect to receive. This is a helpful guide. "Maximum grant" means only the amount you could conceivably receive. It is usually not the amount of the grant awarded.

Wasn't a ruling recently made on the eligibility of widowers for Social Security benefits?—T.G.
Dear Mr. G:

The United States Supreme Court ruled in February that giving Social Security benefits to widows but not to widowers is unconstitutional. The court ruled that a man whose working wife dies should be entitled to benefits, just as women receive benefits when their working husbands die. The 36-year-old law which was struck down was unfair to working women, their husbands, and their children. As a result of this unanimous ruling, some $20 million in Social Security will become available to those previously ineligible. For more information, contact your local Social Security office.

Exchange student finds U.S. just like movies

AMBOY — Miss Margit Pedersen, Hirsals, Denmark, was amazed to find so many people wearing cowboy hats, boots and blue jeans when she participated in the weekend activities at the Green River Saddle Club. "Just like the cowboy movies we see in Denmark," she said.

Miss Petersen, 17, is an exchange student at Malta High School and lives with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hoyle, former Amboy residents who brought their guest to Amboy for the club trail rides, and pancake and sausage dinner, movies and dance held over the weekend. She is an avid horsewoman and had to sell her horse to finance her trip to the United States.

She compared the cowboy attire worn here to the uniform dress required of horsemen participating in events in Denmark.

mark. The inform there being black pants, boots and caps with bright red coats.

In comparing notes on her homeland and the United States she said that she was happy to find one could have a choice of curriculum in high school. While in Denmark many required subjects had to be completed with little opportunity to pursue a favorite study. She particularly enjoys the art classes and home economics classes she is taking.

Miss Petersen came to the United States with a group of about 100 students from Sweden, Norway and Denmark last August and will return to Denmark this August. Besides attending classes at Malta High School she will have an opportunity to see some of the points of interest in the Midwest. Among the places she hopes to see are the state capital at Springfield and the Arch and the Mississippi River at St. Louis.

Another facet of life here which she is enjoying is cooking and the different kinds of foods. She said that she has already acquired three cookbooks which she plans to take back to Denmark with her. Also a surprise was the amount of beef people eat here, while in Denmark much pork is used.

Heart Association plans dinner, awards activity

The Lee County Heart Association annual dinner meeting and awards night will be held May 8 at 7 p.m., in the Nachusa House and will include a review of the 1975 Heart Fund Campaign and of the local association's community service activity during the past year.

Featured speaker for the event will be Charles Olson of East Moline, who will speak on Type A Personality as a Risk Factor in Heart Disease. Olson, who is a past president and campaign chairman for the Rock Island County Heart Association, is a former mayor of East Moline and has served as chairman of the Board of Directors of Illini Hospital in Silvis. "The type A Personality," Olson explains, "is not proposed as the single cause of heart attack and stroke. Nor has it been defined in lieu of other causes. Rather, the type A personality will be discussed as an additional contributing factor among many."

In announcing the date for the meeting, William Gunner, president of the local association, mentioned that the meeting will also include election of officers for the coming year and the recognition of volunteers for their work in the heart cause.

"The meeting," Gunner explained, "is open to the public." Anyone interested in the association and its work is most welcome, he said. The cost of the "Dutch Treat Dinner," of baked chicken is $3.60. Persons who would like to attend are asked to contact Richard Pettenger, association treasurer, at the City National Bank and Trust Co., no later than Monday.

Awarded art scholarship

ROCHELLE — Karen Hilliard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hilliard, Holcomb, has been awarded an art scholarship this year by the arts department of the Rochelle Woman's Club. Mrs. John Nink and Mrs. Catherine Draper are co-persons of the Art department awards for the club.

Each year an outstanding student in art at the Rochelle Township High School, receives this award for creative ability and for superior work in art.

Miss Hilliard will attend a one week art school in Allerton Park near Monticello in July. She was recommended for the honor by Franklin Kruger, Rochelle Township High School art instructor.

During the week of intensive art training, she will be attending classes in drawing, designing and painting. She will also have the opportunity of sketching in the beautiful scenic park at the school.

She is a high school junior this year and has done exceptionally fine creative art work in the high school art department during the past three years.

This is an annual award given by the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs through a cooperative program with the University of Illinois art department and the Division of University Extension. Each summer the school is attended by approximately 160 high school art students from various Illinois cities.

The Doctor says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB— I have a hiatal hernia, and my diet excludes most liquids, such as juices, carbonated sodas, coffee and tea.

I am also very constipated, which I think may be caused by the lack of liquids in my body. I do drink two to three glasses of milk a day, and I use sour cream, cream cheese, and other dairy products which may also tend to bind me.

Every time I move my bowels I feel a strain on my heart. I don't want to take laxatives too often. I'm 60 years old. Can you recommend a mild laxative and how often I can take it? Also, what other beverages can I take?

DEAR READER— There is nothing wrong with increasing your water intake. A hiatal hernia, hernia of a portion of the stomach through an enlarged hole in the diaphragm, doesn't mean you can't eat a fairly normal diet. What you need to do is eat smaller meals and have maybe five meals a day. That way you don't overload your stomach.

The limitation of the fluids you mentioned is an effort to protect you from excess acid digestive juice formation or the addition of acid as in fruit juices. You could drink more milk if you liked. A weak lemonade might not bother you. I hope you are getting enough fresh fruits and vegetables, or if not that you take vitamin C regularly.

Your diet restrictions no doubt have caused you to eliminate bulk or roughage. You don't need to. A bowl of cereal at breakfast would be helpful. Using real whole wheat bread, not just brown colored bread or white bread, would be useful.

If you eat enough roughage daily and increase your fluid intake to normal, you may do a lot for your bowel problems.

I don't know what you mean by feeling the strain on your heart, but it is true that difficult bowel movements can affect the heart. They may set off powerful irregularities of the heart in some people. I have seen more than one case of individuals with a recent heart attack who have died during the strain of a bowel movement.

Also, straining is not a good thing for your hiatal hernia. Increased intra-abdominal pressure will force the stomach through the enlarged hole, or will squeeze out the acid material in the stomach into the lower esophagus. You want to avoid both. So, I agree that good bowel habits are important in patients with hiatal hernia.

I'm not much in favor of laxatives. The chemical laxatives are often irritants to the digestive tract, and if used very often can be a cause of chronic bowel problems. I would prefer that you solve your problem by increasing the bulk in your diet, and following a bowel training regime.

You should talk to your doctor about these points. It will help your hiatal hernia problems, as well as your bowel problems if you develop a good home program.

Beef Auxiliary will sponsor queen contest

The newly organized Ogle County Beef Auxiliary will sponsor a County Beef Queen contest on July 1, 7 p.m., at the Ogle County Farm Bureau, Oregon. Debbie Kruse, Stillman Valley and Mrs. Larry Slager, Polo were named Co-Chairmen of the event. The contestant must be a resident of Ogle County; at least a Junior in High School and not over 22 years of age. She must be from a family whose income is at least partially derived from feeding or raising of beef cattle within the last three years, or, is herself involved in raising beef cattle. A three to five minute talk is required on a topic pertaining to the Beef Industry. She should be available throughout the year to participate, or, be present at county events. If chosen queen she must be available in December for the State convention. The Illinois Queen reigns December 1975-76.

Development in cattle industry may mean more beef available

By L. H. SIMERL
Some important developments have occurred recently in the cattle-beef industry:

(1) Marketings decreased sharply in late March and early April; (2) that caused cattle prices to climb about 20 percent in three weeks; (3) the quarterly USDA survey on April 1 showed that farmers planned to market about 25 percent fewer grain-fed cattle during the second quarter of 1975 than a year ago.

As a result, consumers may pay slightly higher prices for some cuts of beef. Even so, there will probably be a record amount of beef available during the remainder of this year.

Beef production has been at an all-time high for several months. Output during the six months October-March totaled about 11.7 billion pounds, eight percent more than a year earlier. Even after the decrease in cattle marketings in March, beef output exceeded the 1974 volume.

Average retail prices for beef reached a peak of $1.50 a pound in February, 1974. Then, consumer resistance brought down the average to around $1.35 by last May. During the past winter, large marketings of cattle dropped beef prices to about $1.26 a pound. Retail prices generally move a few weeks after changes in the prices of live cattle. Hence, the recent decrease in cattle marketings and the rising costs of slaughter cattle may bring higher prices for some beef cuts.

The USDA report of cattle on feed showed that on April 1, farmers in 23 states were fattening 8,452,000 cattle and calves, 31 percent fewer than a year earlier. This reduction reflected shortened feeding periods as well as fewer cattle moving through the feed lots. Thus, marketings of fed cattle will not be reduced so much as the number on feed at any one time. Even so, cattle feeders reported intentions to market 25 percent fewer fed cattle this quarter (April-June) than they did a year ago.

While marketings of grain-fed cattle will be down, those of other cattle are expected to be considerably greater than last year. Average slaughter weights will be lower than last year, but probably not enough to keep total beef output from exceeding 1974 production by five percent or more.

The beef and cattle markets will receive strong support from shortages of competitive meats. Weekly pork output will be decreasing until mid-July, already been shipped to market.

next several months are 15 to 20 percent smaller than a year before. The supply of chicken will be increasing, but may run eight to 10 percent less than last spring and summer. The smaller supplies of pork and chicken will more than offset the expected larger volume of beef this year. Beef production, however, is the most uncertain part of the meat supply, because farmers have more flexibility in selling cattle than with hogs and chickens.

The biggest reduction in the number of cattle in feed lots was in the heavier weight groups. The number of steers weighing over 1,100 pounds plus the heifers over 900 pounds was estimated at 784,000, 45 percent fewer than a year earlier. Most of those cattle have already been shipped to market.

Steers weighing 900 to 1,100 pounds plus heifers at 700 to 900 pounds totaled 2,496,000, 32 percent less than a year before. Most of those cattle will be marketed by the end of May. Steers weighing 700 to 900 pounds and heifers at 500 to 700 pounds were listed at 3,030,000, down 25 percent. They will be marketed mostly during June and July.

The USDA estimated the marketings of fed cattle and calves during the first quarter of this year at 5,487,000 down nine percent from the 1974 volume. Placements during those three months were reported at 4,712,000, off 29 percent. Reports from cattle feeders contacted in the survey indicated that they intended to ship 4,703,000 head during this second quarter, 25 percent fewer than a year ago.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-644: Eileen D., aged 20, is enrolled in a school of journalism.
"Dr. Crane," she asked, "whom would you nominate to a Journalistic Hall of Fame as the foremost writer in this 20th Century?"
"Who has done the most to pioneer the widest readership of newspapers?"
Dorothy Dix
And I immediately answered, "Dorothy Dix."
For prior to her advent in journalism, the newspapers unduly focussed on Congress and Wall Street.
Even today, you find that most readers are nauseated at the very word "Watergate," plus the hashed and re-hashed columns about the President, plus other people at Washington.

But 75 years ago, the papers were so negligent of widespread human interest content that women, children, love, marriage and other family problems were largely ignored.
Then Dorothy Dix began her superb "Advice" column, since taken over by various other talented imitators.

Even as late as 1935, a salesman for the Hopkins Syndicate walked into the office of Scripps-Howard editor, Walter Morrow, then at Akron, Ohio.
He showed Mr. Morrow two weeks of these daily "Worry Clinic" cases, drawn from the homes, neighborhoods, schools and factories of typical readers.

Mr. Morrow scanned them quickly; then said:
"Sign me up at once! I've been looking for somebody with professional prestige who could help readers solve their everyday problems in simple language and this is it!"

Walter's judgment was quickly vindicated, for people are universally most fascinated by this "Human Interest" formula:
"Me-Here-Now."

Notice, Watergate, Congress, the White House, Wall Street and Europe don't fit into that formula!

And reader surveys ALWAYS show that psychological "advice" columns top all political, financial, and other syndicated features except the comics!

This "Worry Clinic" thus has always rated first place among women readers against all others, even to the "advice" type, chiefly because it covers the "Me-Here-Now" problems.
A girl with a flat bust or thick ankles or crossed-eyes is far more concerned with how to win a hometown boy friend than with Watergate or the resignation of any President.
Wives are also far more worried about holding their husbands bands than with the Dow Jones stock market closings.

Yet Walter Morrow was called on the carpet at the Scripps-Howard editorial meeting in Columbus, because he launched this "Worry Clinic."
But Walter, a talented Oklahoma debater, held his ground and neatly explained that the Scripps-Howard papers were then too "tight" and lacking in "Human Interest" materials, so five more papers of that chain immediately signed up for this "Worry Clinic."

Dorothy Dix thus pioneered the humanizing of American journalism so women could find effective answers to their myriad problems of love, marriage, child rearing, menopause, and hundreds of others of the "Me-Here-Now" category.

For women are naturally better psychologists than are men and thus crave practical help in solving their vital domestic dilemmas.

So I salute Dorothy Dix as the topnotch pioneering journalist of this 20th Century!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Former Democratic chairman

NBA names commissioner

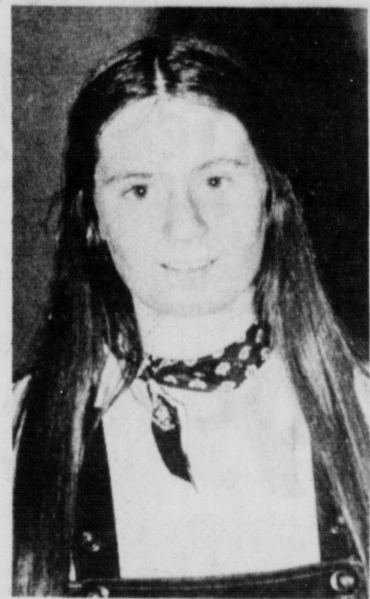

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association has returned to the political ranks to pick a new commissioner, former Democratic National Committee Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

O'Brien, who also served as Postmaster General under President Lyndon Johnson, has been elected unanimously to replace retiring Commissioner Walter Kennedy. The Associated Press learned Monday.

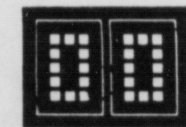

The announcement of O'Brien's selection is expected to be made by the league Wednesday.

In Springfield, Mass., where he was elected president of the Basketball Hall of Fame, Kennedy refused to comment Monday night on O'Brien's appointment.

"The (NBA) selection committee told me last Friday that they would continue to screen candidates. And they meet this week, probably on Wednesday," Kennedy said.

JENNY DAVIS, a junior at Dixon High School, won the Senior Women's Blue Belt and Under form division as a Yellow Belt at the Midwest Tae-Kwon Do Championships at Black Hawk College in Moline on Sunday. Ron Hicks took fifth in the sparring competition while George Berg also competed. (Telegraph Photo)

"Until the selection committee has advised me of any agreement for a new commissioner, I don't want to comment on speculation ... However, this isn't the first time Larry O'Brien's name has come up."

Kennedy, once mayor of Stamford, Conn., has been commissioner since 1963. In 1973, he announced he would retire when his contract expires this summer, giving the selection committee time for a two-year search for his replacement.

O'Brien, 57, is a native of Springfield, Mass., and has been active in Democratic politics and election campaigns most of his life. He directed John F. Kennedy's Senate campaigns in 1952 and 1958 and his 1960 presidential campaign, after which he became Democratic National Committee chairman.

From 1961 to 1965, he was special assistant to congressional relations to Presidents

Kennedy and Johnson, then served for three years as Postmaster General.

He became Democratic chairman again in 1968, serving until succeeded by Jean Westwood in 1972. It was his office at the Watergate office building in Washington that was the target of the Watergate burglars in June 1972.

Although he graduated from Northeastern Law School, he has never practiced law. But his political and legal background are believed to have been two of the reasons he was selected. The NBA faces an antitrust lawsuit by the American Basketball Association, and the NBA Players Association has a suit against the owners challenging the reserve clause.

O'Brien's selection means that Simon Gourdin, the NBA's deputy commissioner and the highest ranking black sports executive in the country, was bypassed for the job.

Wood drops fifth, Sox lose

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harmon Killebrew has taken this city by storm.

Every time the Killer goes to bat for the Kansas City Royals, the crowd bursts into wild hysteria. Even when Manager Jack McKeon removes the slow-foot Killebrew for a pinch runner, the spectators erupt into noisy applause.

It was the sixth inning Monday night. The Royals were tied with the Chicago White Sox 3-3. Killebrew was the first batter up. As he strode to the plate, the crowd reacted in anticipation, breaking loose with thunderous applause.

Wilbur Wood, the White Sox pitcher, threw his first pitch, a knuckleball. Killebrew connected and drilled the pitch over the left field fence, breaking the tie and sending the Royals on to a 7-5 victory over the White Sox.

"Killebrew is making a believer out of a lot of people, including a lot of local people," said McKeon of the aging slugger, who joined the Royals this season after an illustrious career with the Minnesota Twins. "He gets the big hits. That's the history of this guy."

"What helped Harmon was a good spring training. He got in a lot of running. I don't think he took to running along side Wes Santee but maybe it was good for him."

Killebrew said Wood threw a knuckleball "that was up, and I hit it out of here."

The No. 5 home-run hitter in major league history admitted he wasn't too fond of running with Santee, the once great track star, in spring training. Santee was utilized by the Royals as running instructor.

"I thought any second Santee was going to run over into the next county," said Killebrew.

whose homer was his fourth of the season. "Besides, I don't see any connection between running the mile and hitting a home run."

Kansas City's victory, boosting the Royals into first place in the American League West Division, was almost a three-part story. Amos Otis and Fred Patek ganged up on Wood in the early innings, Otis driving Patek home twice with a triple and a double.

Killebrew put the Royals ahead for good with his tremendous blast, and McRae added the icing by slamming a bases-loaded triple in the seventh.

Pat Kelly's double and Carlos May's single gave the Sox a first-inning run, and Chicago tied the score against Steve Busby, 3-1, in the sixth on singles by Jorge Orta, Kelly and May and Ken Henderson's double play ball. Orta unloaded a two-run homer in the ninth.

Wood's defeat was his fifth in six decisions.

Wood said he has "been pitching like I always do. I didn't throw the ball well tonight but most of this season I've been throwing it real well. The losses? I don't have an explanation."

Chuck Tanner, the Sox manager, said Wood "threw the ball well enough. He started slow last year and Wilbur will get his wins. I never worry about Wilbur Wood."

Tigers 3, Orioles 3

Gary Sutherland slashed a two-run single off reliever Dave Johnson in a three-run ninth to keep Detroit atop the American League East.

The single off diving third baseman Brooks Robinson's glove came moments after Mike Cuellar had forced in the tying run by walking Aurelio Rodriguez.

Yankees 6, Indians 1

Rudy May, a midseason acquisition from the California Angels last year, holds the distinction of being New York's ace left-hander. He proved it again with a four-hitter against Cleveland while the Yanks bombed former teammate Fritz Peterson for four runs in the first inning.

Roy White, Elliott Maddox and Thurman Munson singled for one run, Alex Johnson tripled for two more and Graig Nettles' sacrifice fly finished the outburst.

Dodgers 4, Braves 3

Los Angeles, virtually hand-cuffed by Atlanta's Phil Niekro through seven innings, gleefully pounced on reliever Tom House for three runs in the eighth after Niekro's arm stiffened.

House walked Dave Lopes and Jimmy Wynn, Steve Garvey doubled for one run and pinch-hitter Manny Mota ripped a two-run single off the glove of second baseman Marty Perez.

Bullets have lead

By The Associated Press
"We can't think we're going to play 24 minutes of basketball against the Washington Bullets and win," said Boston Celtic Coach Tom Heinsohn.

"We're going to have to play a hell of a lot better than we did Sunday to beat them," said Bullets Coach K.C. Jones.

By what they say, it's hard to tell which team holds a 1-0 edge in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association Eastern Division playoff finals.

"They didn't beat us," Heinsohn said. "We beat us. It isn't what they did. It's what we didn't do."

The series resumes Wednesday in Landover, Md., with the Bullets holding a slight advantage after capturing Sunday's contest.

In the Western Division finals, the Golden State Warriors travel to Chicago Wednesday after gunning down the Bulls in their series opener.

"We were very gracious," Boston center Dave Cowens said. "We had the game and gave it to them. Oh, I should say we let them take it away from us."

But Jones wasn't letting his Bullets rest on their laurels. The Bullets worked out for an hour Tuesday at a high school in Laurel, Md., and forward Mike Riordan, who has been hampered with a leg injury, said the injury "has improved tremendously."

Chicago Coach Dick Motta knows what happened to his team.

"They out-hustled us, they out-shot us, they dominated us. I don't think there is anything else I can say."

But several Bulls had their own ideas about what happened in the first game against Golden State.

Chet Walker, one of Chicago's top scorers, took only seven shots in 30 minutes.

"That is not the way we win," Walker said. "I think I should have had the ball more."

Bulls forward Bob Love agreed: "We have to have more people involved in offense."

Even Golden State forward Rick Barry knew what was wrong with the Bulls.

"One man's scoring cannot do the job for any team," Barry said. "I'm quick, but I am able to score most of my points and get most of my defensive steals because we help each other."

And that's what's right with the Warriors.

Viet amputee brilliant in TV role tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — ABC tonight is airing "Returning Home," a TV remake of "The Best Years of Our Lives," the fine 1946 movie about the return of three servicemen to civilian life after World War II.

The show definitely is worth watching, if only for the superb, natural performance of an amateur actor, James R. Miller, whom ABC says is a former Marine who lost both arms in combat in Vietnam.

He plays a Navy enlisted man whose arms were shot off in a Pacific sea battle. And he's just as brilliant in the role as its original occupant, Harold Russell, a double amputee from World War II.

Tom Selleck and Dabney Coleman also are excellent as they recreate the roles of a returning Air Corps bombardier and an infantry sergeant, parts originally played by Dana Andrews and the late Frederic March.

Fans of the movie no doubt will have a field day picking out the major and minor changes made for ABC's show, a series pilot.

Two not-in-the-original biggies I spotted, both involving the bombardier, were:

—The addition of a black former Air Corps pilot as a friend who, as a civilian, encounters an ugly instance of smalltown bigotry.

—The transformation of the bombardier's blatantly unfaithful, partying wife to a possibly unfaithful wife who now is a hard-working, ambitious secretary and spends much time at work with her boss.

Other alterations have been made, but the 90-minute program generally follows the familiar lines of the movie as it traces their return from the war to the small town in which they all live.

They meet on a homeward-bound flight, then share a cab from the airport to their respective homes, passing a saloon owned by the sailor's uncle. They promise to meet here sometime and eventually do.

The sailor, whose "hands" now are artificial claws, worries whether his fiancée still loves him, despite his condition. She does, but both her parents and his are visibly uneasy because of his artificial arms.

The infantry sergeant, who has a wife and children, is perhaps the best off, being re-hired by the bank for which he worked before the war and made a vice-president at $12,000 annually.

The bombardier, who had no training or education that would prepare him for civilian life, flounders around until forced to take a $32-a-week clerk's job at a drugstore in which he worked before the war.

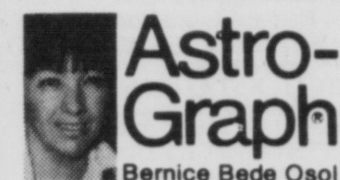

That's the basic situation for the three returning veterans, and viewers who weren't fortunate to see the original movie should watch this one to see how things turn out.

The program lacks the fine character shadings of "The Best Years of Our Lives" — though not because of its actors — and its built-in commercial breaks occasionally make it seem abbreviated to a fault.

But all things considered, "Returning Home" is a good effort for TV. It'd make a welcome series, particularly if James R. Miller continued in it. He deserves an Emmy award for this show alone.

You're quite capable today when it comes to handling your personal resources. However, you won't make the most from a career opportunity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Selling others on your ideas is not your cup of tea today. You'll have to take your time in spelling out the fine points.

Your purse is likely to be a mite thin today after you take care of obligations that have finally caught up with you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't make a hasty decision regarding an important matter. Talk it over first with a friend who's had a similar experience.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
A goal you've set is within reach today, but you'll waste a lot of time before you zero in on it. Get started early!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You could easily be convinced by friends to do something against your better judgment today. Be careful — price tag could be high.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Before making commitments today, consider what's best for your family to insure future harmony.

If you listen to advice from outsiders as opposed to that of one you're closely associated with, you'll be led down the garden path.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Don't let others capitalize on your efforts. If you do, something that should be coming to you will be diverted to the Johnny-come-latelies.

Avoid teaming up today with someone whose interests are not in tune with yours. This person will only delay what you hope to achieve.

Tailors profiting from recession

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — Tailors say recession belt-tightening is taking up the slack in their trades.

New suit sales are down, but they're stitching away on a growing alteration and repair business from customers cutting clothing budgets to fit thinner wallets.

Jasper Lockwood, a Mount Vernon, Ill., tailor, says, "We are getting a lot of people bringing in older garments and asking, 'Can I make it serve for awhile?' The alterations business is about the best it's been in years."

Much of the demand is for re-cutting and restyling, he says, and other tailors tell him they're getting the same sort of business.

Checks in other smaller cities seem to bear him out, but fashionable metropolitan salons apparently aren't interested in the recession trade.

At a smart shop in Chicago's Loop, proprietor Alex Morrone says, "Maybe in these small areas, I would say, the recession maybe has taken some clothes out of mothballs.... But we don't find it in our trade."

"Frankly, we don't do too much in alterations," he says. "We're concerned mainly with new clothing. There may be some smaller tailors who are doing alterations, but we don't consider them fine custom tailors."

In New York, an officer of the National Custom Tailors and Designers Association of America scoffs at such work.

"Our people don't want any part of alterations," says Irma Lipkin, assistant secretary. "They are not interested in altering old clothes to make them look new. They want to sell new clothes."

"If a man wants to go out and conquer the economy," she says, he should wear the new "confident and comfortable" styles "with understated elegance, relaxed and dignified."

Apparently the line isn't playing as well as it might in Peoria, or in Springfield, Ill., or even in suburban St. Louis.

"Our alterations definitely are up in the last few months," Marvin McElvoy, a Springfield tailor, says. "We've had as many suits as we can do. Alterations are up 15 per cent anyway. People are just trying to get more wear out of them."

Outside St. Louis, Renceniello Arsenio says, "Before the recession they used to buy a lot of new clothes. Now they make do with the old ones."
